CAMPION COLLEGE IS DIFFERENT...

As a liberal arts undergrad at Campion College, you will complete a unique program of study that seeks not only to impart knowledge, but to cultivate wisdom.

While many institutions view higher education through the lens of pure career training, Campion focuses on formation of the whole person – intellectual, social, spiritual and vocational. When we combine this approach with intimate class sizes that enable direct access to your academics, the result is a genuine community of learning that encourages human flourishing in a truly remarkable way.

A generation from now, you will likely be serving in influential fields such as education, media, business, law, medicine, evangelisation and politics. In these positions, you will exercise reflective and responsible leadership, drawing on the skills, character, wisdom and vision that you cultivated in early adulthood. Imagine the difference that a liberal arts education will have on your formation and the difference you, as a Campion graduate, will make on our society!

This prospectus highlights the ways Campion can help equip you for your future. The ideas and relationships you form here will shape your worldview and give you unparalleled foundation for understanding and living life.

I look forward to seeing you on campus!

WHY CHOOSE CAMPION?

A UNIQUE TERTIARY EXPERIENCE

Campion College offers Australia's premier tertiary liberal arts program.

While most tertiary institutions push students to specialise for a single career straight out of high school, Campion offers an integrated and multi-disciplinary degree that all students study together. This is unique in Australian higher education and an approach that fosters a more cohesive social and academic experience for students.

It is also an approach that challenges students to cultivate interests in new fields and develop a foundation that will future-proof their professional lives. We equip students with transferable skills that employers desire, such as critical thinking, effective writing, persuasive speaking, problem-solving and the ability to work with others. Small class sizes enabling direct access to your professors and lively classroom debate are essential to the development of such skills.

In addition to the academic program, we approach social life, spiritual life and residential life as part of the fabric of a complete higher education experience. Our students love the integration within the degree and within college life; in fact, this is part of the reason why Campion College has one of the highest student satisfaction rankings in Australia.

Each year, our students provide feedback on their study experience as part of the federal government's nationwide Student Experience Survey for all tertiary education students. Campion is proud to report outstanding results against all survey metrics, confirming our commitment to excellence and ability to offer the #1 Bachelor of Arts degree in Australia. Please see below for our 2020 results. We invite you to compare our results with other institutions at the ComparED website.

LIBERAL ARTS EDUCATION

History of the liberal arts

The term 'liberal arts' refers to a traditional program of learning in Western higher education that can trace its origins back to Ancient Greece. In the ancient world, the art of public speaking was integral to civic life and so rhetoric, grammar and logic – collectively known as the trivium – became essential components of a classical education.

This educational model was transmitted to the Roman and medieval world where four subjects were added: arithmetic, geometry, astronomy and music, collectively known as the quadrivium.

The seven subjects of the medieval liberal arts were then transmitted via the Renaissance to the schools and universities of modern Europe and America. Over time, the trivium and quadrivium began to correlate with what we know now as the humanities and sciences.

Liberal arts today

In modern times, liberal arts degrees focus on four key areas: natural sciences, social sciences, arts and humanities.

By engaging with a range of disciplines at undergraduate level, students acquire transferable knowledge and skills that will serve as the foundation for their post-school lives. While this is vastly different to the current approach taken by most Australian tertiary institutions, it is an approach that remains commonplace in higher education internationally. Institutions that continue to offer the liberal arts model offer a vital alternative to narrowly focused degrees which restrict lateral thinking and the development of transferable skills.

The value of an education in a liberal arts college is not the learning of many facts but the training of the mind to think something that cannot be learned from textbooks.

ALBERT EINSTEIN

Liberal arts at Campion College

Campion's undergraduate degree centres on a core curriculum covering history, literature, philosophy and theology. Students also undertake science units in their third year and have the option to study Classical Latin, Classical Greek and mathematics in addition to the main disciplines.

A FOUNDATION FOR LIFE

Do you want to be a well-rounded, curious, confident person? Do you care about the kind of character you will form during your university years?

The modern approach to higher education that encourages students to specialise in one field of study straight after high school does not prepare students adequately for the realities of today's job market. Additionally, this approach to education ignores key aspects of human flourishing, prioritising technique over wisdom, sacrificing virtue for the sake of efficiency, curbing creativity and undermining true community.

Campion's liberal arts curriculum and unique study environment overcome these shortfalls by providing students with a coherent and comprehensive study experience. Our liberal arts graduates enjoy many personal and professional benefits from their studies including:

Transferable knowledge and skills

A liberal arts degree fosters analytical, critical and creative thinking, as well as problem solving, information literacy and communication skills that can be applied across a range of industries. Ernst and Young have reported that employers are placing higher value on these skills than vocational schooling when recruiting recent graduates.

Having a strong foundation in the liberal arts has enabled me to adapt, think on my feet and problem solve every day, both in my professional and personal life.

REBECCA COOPER, CLASS OF 2019

Career discernment

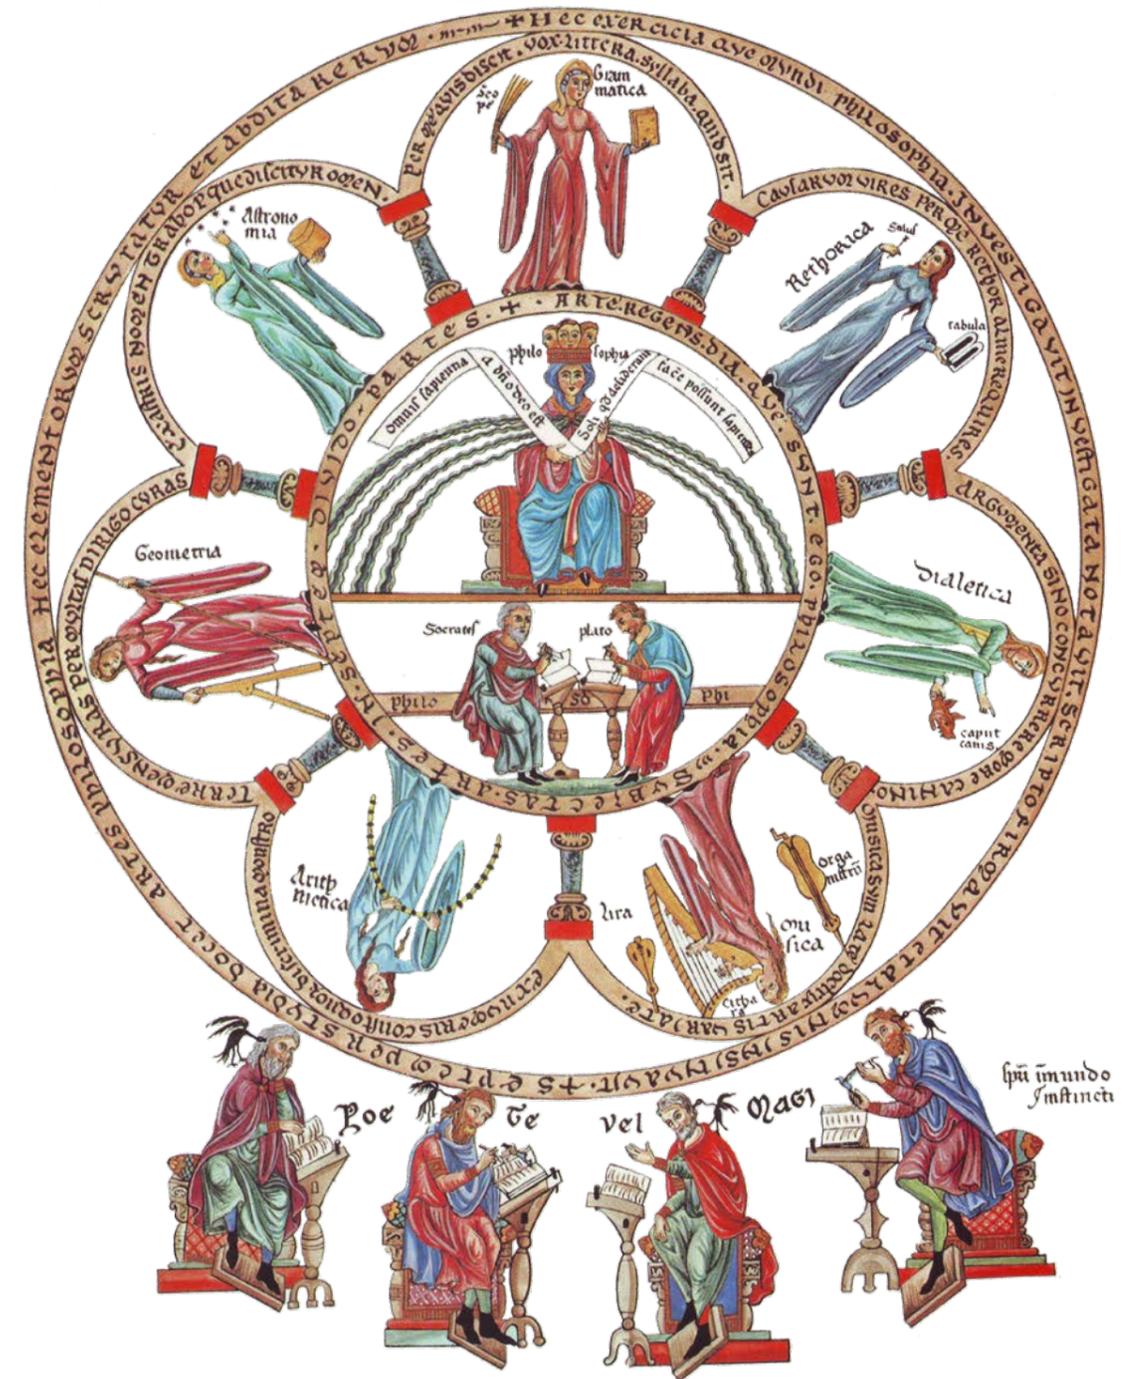

Exposure to a broad range of subjects in your formative years encourages a more informed choice about your initial career path.

A foundation for postgraduate study

Liberal arts graduates are better equipped to deal with the rigour of postgraduate study given the focus on developing higher order thinking and communication skills in their undergraduate years.

The tools for human flourishing

Liberal arts degrees produce well-rounded, articulate graduates with a love of learning and the ability to engage with everything life has to offer on a deeper level.

Philosophia et septem artes liberales, the seven liberal arts. From the Hortus deliciarum of Herrad of Landsberg (12th century)

BROADEN YOUR HORIZONS

Consider the nature of education and work today:

- One in three Australian graduates do not find work in their chosen field.ⁱ
- The average Australian changes jobs every 3.3 years.ⁱⁱ That's roughly 12 job changes in your lifetime and several of those job changes will also be career changes.
- 85% of jobs that will exist in 2030 have not yet been invented.ⁱⁱⁱ

Considering these statistics, what are the chances that your typical degree which focuses on a niche set of technical or vocational skills is going to be relevant to:

- Your first job?
- An imminent career change?
- The future of work?

Liberal arts degrees produce graduates who can adapt and thrive in an ever-changing world. They are flexible in their work environment and outlook, possess superior communication skills and are capable of reasoned and critical analysis.

In essence, a liberal arts degree 'liberates' you from the burden of having to choose a career specialisation too early in life and equips you with the skills for professional success that will serve you throughout your entire working life. Having a liberal arts degree on your resume will also set you apart in the job market!

Through my Campion education, I have learned to reason, be critical of evidence in front of me and consider alternative options, solutions and viewpoints that might not ordinarily be largely accepted or considered. Combined with the opportunity to develop rhetoric, argumentative and oral skills, this has allowed me to be successful and influential in my roles, which is incredibly fulfilling.

JOSEPH REBBECHI, CLASS OF 2017

While some liberal arts graduates go straight into the workforce, many undertake graduate programs or further studies to obtain the technical skills needed for a particular profession. Our graduates have pursued successful careers in media and communications, teaching, law, business, politics, government, administration, research, policy writing, evangelisation and religious-based work.

THE COLLEGE EXPERIENCE

Located in the heart of western Sydney, the beautiful grounds and charming buildings of Campion College provide the perfect environment for study, socialisation and communal living.

Our 10-acre campus includes lecture halls, classrooms, the college library, a chapel, sporting areas, student accommodation and dining facilities. Tennis courts, public transport routes and a convenience store are within walking distance of the college and the historic city of Parramatta can be found just a 10-minute drive from campus, offering an array of services as well as cultural and entertainment opportunities.

For those students eager to venture out just a little further, Campion is situated midway between the coast and the magnificent Blue Mountains. Our students love taking spontaneous sunrise coastal walks, tranquil mountain hikes, ferry rides through the harbour and just about everything else Sydney has to offer!

But before you jump in a car or on a train, there's plenty to do on campus too! Check out the following pages for some of the highlights of life on campus.

My education at Campion College was a formative experience that shaped my worldview, inspired my love of learning and opened up many educational and career opportunities for which I am very grateful.

KEZIAH VAN AARDT, CLASS OF 2012

Clubs and societies

Clubs and societies cater for a wide range of interests. These include the Art Society, Classics Society, Debating Society, Democratic Club, Film Society, Theatre Society and even a Tea Society! Many students have taken the initiative to establish new societies. Whether your thing is photography, cooking or Jane Austen, there is room to start a society!

Sport and fitness

The main sport played on campus is soccer, which allows for mixed competition as well as plenty of excitement at the annual President's Plate. Swing dancing and volleyball games are also popular while the Champion College Rowing Crew trains regularly offsite. A highlight of the year is the annual Olympic Games hosted by the Classics Society.

Chaplaincy

The chaplaincy team seeks to provide students with a variety of ways to grow in their Christian life. Mass is celebrated daily on campus and the Sacraments of Reconciliation and Confession are regularly available. Students also have the opportunity to take part in retreats, spiritual reflections, evangelisation opportunities and community outreach.

Formal Hall

Formal Hall is a centuries old tradition that dates back to the colleges and halls of Oxford and Cambridge. At Formal Hall, students and staff gather for a formal dinner with exquisite food, engaging guest speakers, student-led music and lively conversation. Formal Hall is held fortnightly and all residential students and day students are encouraged to attend.

Music

Regular Talent Nights provide the opportunity to share musical and dramatic talents. A Yamaha Grand Piano is open to student use and fortnightly Formal Halls are often graced with student performances. Gifted singers can also audition for the Champion College Schola, a four-part mixed voice choir that sings at all college events.

Student association and events

The Champion College Student Association (CCSA) supports the student body through its initiatives and promotes the work of clubs and societies. The CCSA also hosts several social events each year including the annual Champion Ball which attracts hundreds of young adults from all over Sydney and beyond for a night of celebration and dancing.

COLLEGE ACCOMMODATION

In the United States and around the world, students look forward to a grand adventure upon graduating from high school: the college experience. They consider this an adventure because it not only takes courage to move away from home but also provides a newfound sense of freedom, accomplishment and community.

Living in shared accommodation with like-minded people your own age is central to the college experience. It affords students the chance to explore, wrestle with deep questions, have fun, participate in late night conversations about big issues and build lifelong friendships. Campion offers this traditional college experience in Australia and we approach residential life and social life as integral parts of your liberal arts education.

Accommodation options

Campion provides single-sex accommodation in dormitory wings adjacent to the main building and residential houses located on-site. Depending on availability and demand, students in the houses will reside in a single or twin room with an en suite. All dormitories are single rooms with communal bathrooms.

Each student has their own bed, desk and wardrobe as well as access to a number of amenities including kitchenettes, student common rooms, Wi-Fi and storage facilities. Laundry facilities are also available on campus and meals are included in all accommodation packages.

Pastoral care

Our Student Life Team knows each student personally and provides professional support services, assisting with issues related to accommodation, health, special needs and spiritual support. Each accommodation area is also assigned a Residential Assistant who is a senior student at the college. Their primary role is to provide personal support to students, ensure harmonious living and assist with the planning and implementation of social activities.

Moving away from home to a new place is always scary but having a small group of like-minded people who are your age really helps with that transition and helps you get the most out of your studies because you're all doing it together.

For more information about OSHC, including a list of providers, see: <https://www.studyaustralia.gov.au/english/live/insurance>

Safety

Australia is a very safe place to live and study, with a low crime rate and reliable emergency services. However, when exploring Sydney's sites and other parts of Australia, it's important to be aware that there are still some risks related to the country's natural conditions. When planning an outing, be aware of the weather forecast via the Bureau of Meteorology.

Emergencies

The Triple Zero (000) service is the quickest way to get the right resources from emergency services to help you and should be used to contact Police, Fire or Ambulance services in life threatening or time critical situations.

In the event of other emergencies, see the College's Emergency Contacts list provided with your Orientation Pack.

Legal services

Should you require legal advice concerning work, study, or visa requirements, a free legal service is provided by the International Student Legal Service NSW, established by the NSW Government. This service gives free, confidential legal advice to international students living in New South Wales.

Employment services

While studying at Campion, you may wish to gain part-time or casual employment to boost your income and add to your overall experience while in Australia.

Our Student Life Officer can assist you in identifying where to find local employment opportunities however student visa holders must be aware of the legal limits and requirements for paid employment while enrolled in a course of study. Further information can be found on the Australian Government Department of Home Affairs website.

Services for underage students

This college provides additional support, guidance and activities for international students under 18 years of age. These include residential support, academic mentoring/study skills advice and cultural awareness mentoring. The College will provide underage students with age-appropriate information about who to contact in emergency situations and how to disclose or report incidents of sexual assault and sexual harassment, or any form of bullying and abuse.

OUR COURSE

Most modern universities offer a vast assortment of subjects in the hopes that students will find something they already like. Little attempt is made to relate subjects to each other or to show how all fields of knowledge hold together. This approach fails not only to challenge students to cultivate interests in new fields but also to provide a sense of coherence in their studies.

At Campion College, all students take the same units together as a community. Our Bachelor course focuses on five key disciplines – history, literature, philosophy, theology and science – and careful thought has been given to the content and structure of our course so you can rest assured that you are going to get the most out of your tertiary studies. This careful planning means that what you study in history links with the concepts you learn in philosophy, which connect with your readings in literature, insights in science and classes in theology. It's a comprehensive and cohesive approach that will help you make sense of the relationships between distinct fields and topics. It will even help you to fall in love with disciplines you perhaps weren't the most excited about initially!

Campion is not just a place to learn, it's a community of learning. You're not doing different degrees, you're all in it together and that is precious.

AUD $18,480 per year

START DATES

Semester 2 - Jul/Aug

*International students are required to pay for their tuition fees upfront before the commencement of each semester.

Overview

The Bachelor of Arts in the Liberal Arts provides students with a cohesive understanding of the influences which have shaped Western culture. Students will engage with Western history, literature, philosophy, religion and science in an integrated and loosely chronological fashion. This leads students to a deeper appreciation of the works, ideas, movements and personalities that underpin the Western world.

Course Outline

Students are required to complete a minimum of 24 units to meet the minimum requirements for the degree, with at least 8 units at each of 100, 200 and 300 levels.

For the first two years, you will study core units in history, literature, philosophy and theology. In your third year, you are required to complete two science units and six elective units. You may elect to complete a major by choosing four out of your six third year electives from a single discipline. Units in mathematics, Classical Latin and Classical Greek may be taken above-load (in addition to your BA units).

The curriculum is integrated in several ways. First, the units of study in each discipline build upon each other so that the concepts mastered in your first year reappear and inform the content studied in your subsequent years. Second, the core disciplines follow a chronological progression of study, beginning in antiquity before moving through the Middle Ages and Renaissance towards the modern world. This approach will help you to appreciate the development and advancement of knowledge throughout Western Civilisation. Finally, the disciplines are integrated with each other, allowing you to make connections between them and get the most out of each unit of study. For example, while learning about the times in which Shakespeare lived (history) and what he wrote (literature), you will also learn about how the theological and philosophical debates of his time helped shape his work.

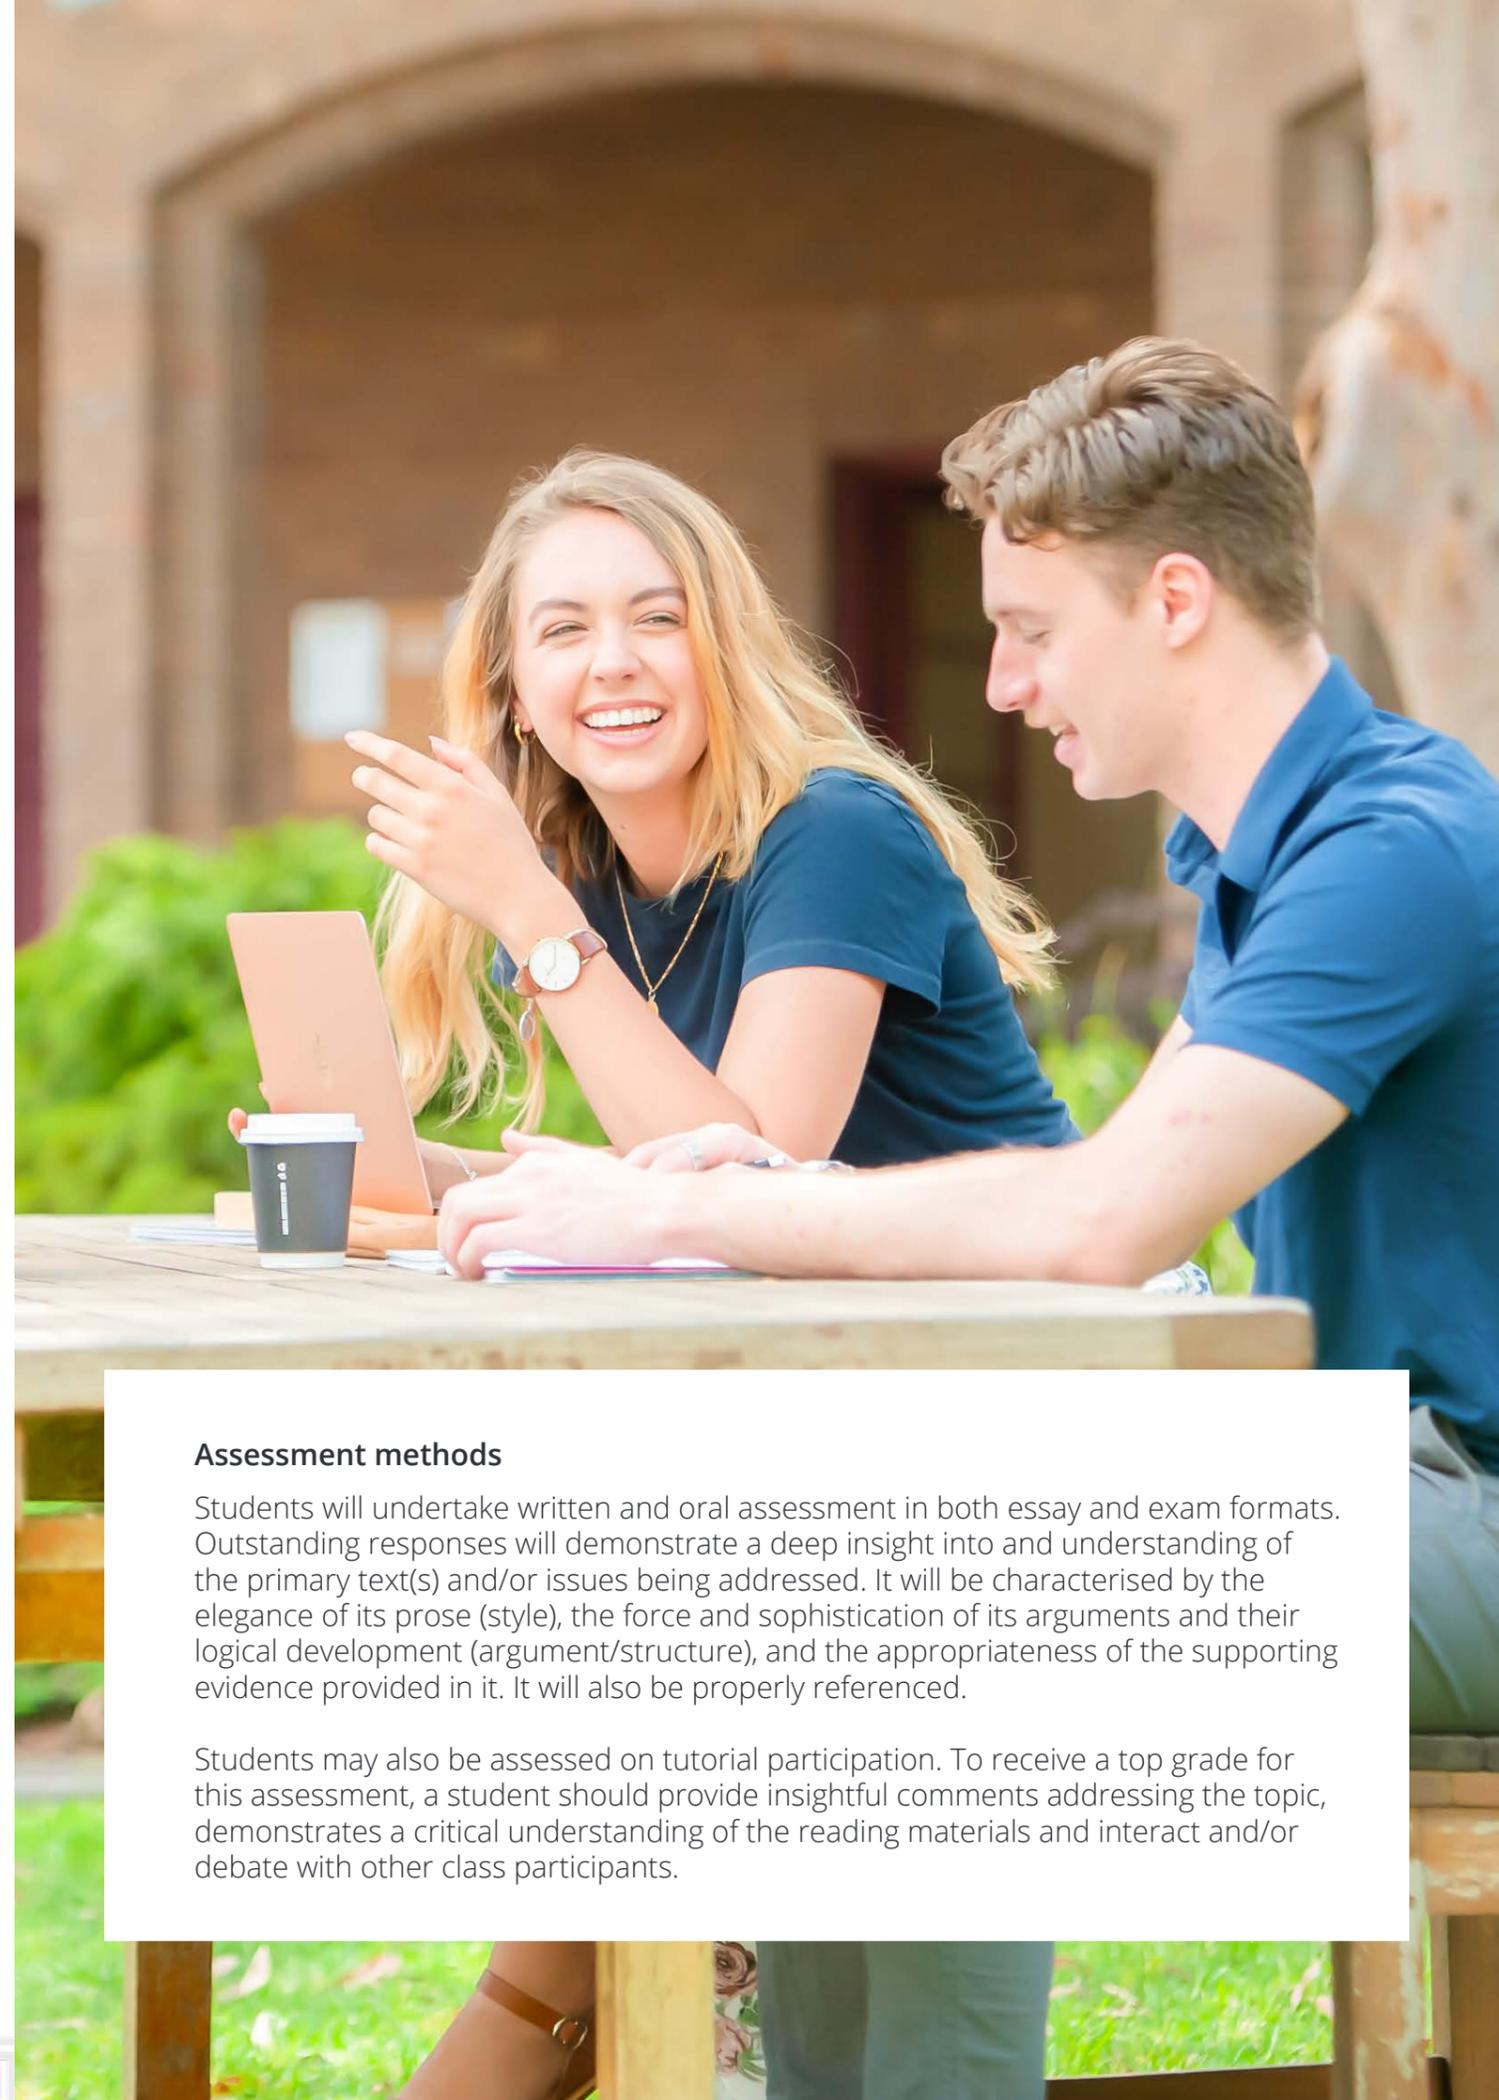

Graduate Outcomes

The expected educational outcomes of this degree are reflected in the following Graduate Attributes:

- The capacity to think logically, to analyse critically and find morally responsible solutions to problems;
- An advanced understanding of the way society has developed and the critical strands of human thinking and activity which have shaped and continue to shape Western culture;
- The ability to adapt to a wide variety of employment and career opportunities because of enhanced and developed generic attitudes such as independence of thought, critical evaluation, research abilities, and communication skills;
- Interpersonal and teamwork skills appropriate to employment and/or further study;

FAQ

How does Champion compare to other tertiary institutions?

Campion is proud to report outstanding results against the Australian government's Quality Indicators for Learning and Teaching (QILT). The QILT website allows you to compare Champion to other tertiary institutions against teaching quality, learner engagement, skills development, student support, learning resources and overall experience.

Do I have to be Catholic to study at Champion?

No. Champion welcomes students of any faith and no faith. Students are encouraged to engage in conversations about different cultures, perspectives, and ways of life. We ask that all students treat each other charitably and be respectful of our Catholic identity.

What are amenities fees?

Students are required to pay $55 per semester in amenities fees, to help cover the cost of several student services, including, but not limited to: Orientation Week activities, sporting and recreational equipment, and health and welfare services.

Is a Champion degree as valuable as a university degree?

Yes. Many famous tertiary institutions, such as the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), do not have the word 'university' in their name; Champion follows this trend. Champion offers bachelor and diploma qualifications. These undergraduate degrees are accredited by the same state and federal bodies that carefully control all other degrees in Australia.

How many students go to Champion?

Our numbers vary from year to year however regardless of intake, your tutorials will always have a strict 20-person limit. You will know everyone on campus by name, including your lecturers and tutors. This is conducive to effective study and strong progress, as well as forming lifelong friendships and bonds in a young, likeminded community.
